

MATH 1010-2: INTERMEDIATE ALGEBRA
Addendum to the Grading Policy

Effective September 7, 2010, the following addendum to the grading policy will be enforced. Each time a student disrupts class, a percentage will be subtracted from their final grade according to the following schedule:

First disruption: 2% will be subtracted from the final grade.

Second disruption: An additional 4% will be subtracted.

Third disruption: An additional 8% will be subtracted.

Fourth disruption: An additional 16% will be subtracted.

Fifth disruption: Student will automatically fail the class.

Examples of disruptions include: texting during class, talking during class (except when addressing me with a question), having a cell phone ring or vibrate during class, arriving late in a disruptive fashion, and packing up and leaving early in a disruptive fashion. (This list is not complete.)
