

Math 3000: Undergraduate Colloquium Fall 2017

Purpose: The Undergraduate Colloquium consists of a series of weekly 50-minute talks (usually by departmental faculty), which cover a broad range of topics in mathematics, its history, and its applications. Each talk is self-contained and intended for actual and potential undergraduate mathematics students. More broadly, anybody with an interest in mathematics or the specific topic is welcome to attend.

Time and Place: We meet Wednesdays at 12:55 – 1:45 in LCB 225. The first meeting will be on August 30.

Credit: The Undergraduate Colloquium may be taken for one hour of credit or no credit (rather than a letter grade) as Math 3000-1. To receive credit you need to attend regularly (missing no more than twice) and submit a short paper on one of the topics discussed the colloquium during this semester. For more information on taking the class for credit, see

<http://www.math.utah.edu/~pa/3000/>
<http://www.math.utah.edu/ugrad/credit.html>

Note: All students are welcome to attend the Undergraduate Colloquium whether they are registered for credit or not.

Organizers: Peter Alfeld, JWB 127, pa@math.utah.edu and Aryn DeJulis, MC 155-A, dejulis@math.utah.edu. Contact either one of us for more info, if you have a suggestion for a colloquium topic, or if you need help of any kind.

Office Hours: (with Peter Alfeld in JWB 127) before or after the Colloquium on Wednesdays. You are also welcome to email, make an appointment, or just drop by.

Online Info: For a current list of topics, see
